Train-robbers seem to have gone on a vacation.

Chicago is doing well to prevent the spreading of small-pox, two thousand persons being vaccinated a day.

Ex-Governor McCormick, of Arizona, has purchased 10,000 acres of land in Mexico, on which he proposes to grow coffee.

A bill has been introduced in the Assembly to repeal the anti-treating law. The public repealed the law almost immediately after it was enacted.

Texas raised $2,000,000 worth of peanuts last year, hanged twenty-four murderers, and built over five hundred miles of railway. Texas is a progressive State.

The report is current that S. S. Rockwood is a candidate for the position of superintendent of the Industrial school at Waukesha. He is a fit man for the place.

It is rumored that Mr. Blaine will be returned to Congress from his old district. Any mention of Mr. Blaine's going back to the House is appalling to the Democrats.

It has finally been decided to allow Guiteau to address the jury in his own behalf, Corkhill withdrawing all objections. Probably this is the quickest way to hang the wretch.

Mrs. General Sherman takes well to Mary Anderson. She presented that glory of the American stage with an antique candlestick to carry in the sleep walking scene in Macbeth.

Empress Augusta, of Germany, contributes $600 to the Garfield memorial fund. This reminds us that Queen Victory has not yet made any contributions to that worthy purpose. Her sympathy is not of the Girard fashion.

A resolution has been adopted by both branches of the Legislature asking for the opinion of the Attorney General as to whether the present members can draw $500 instead of $350. Of course he will decide that they can only draw $350.

Miss Kane, of Milwaukee, the lawyer, did not receive the clerkship of the committee on Woman's Suffrage, at Washington, to which the Sentinel remarks that it may be that young Lapham, the man appointed, is a better representative of the fair sex than Miss Kane.

Colonel Nicholas Smith, Greeley's son-in-law, is not easy with Oscar Wilde in this country. The Colonel regarded himself as the prettiest man in America; but since Mr. Wilde landed in New York, the ladies no longer court the presence of the distinguished son-in-law.

It is now heralded all over the country that Miss Anna Dickinson's appearance as an actress of male characters is intellectually and histrionically a triumph. She does some powerful acting, and also splendid wording notwithstanding her feminine tones.

The Gazette has received the catalogue of Beloit College for the academic year, 1881-82, which is one of the handsomest catalogues ever gotten out by that noted and successful college. The total in attendance is 148, and are divided as follows: Seniors, 9; Juniors, 5; Sophomores, 17; Freshmen, 26; in preparator department, 100.

Governor Rusk did a wise thing when he sent to the Senate the names of the present board of control of the State institutions. There was a rumor that he would not nominate all of them and fill the places with some of his particular friends. The course the Governor has taken is simply an act of justice to the gentlemen Governor Smith nominated, and simple justice to Governor Smith himself.

When Scoville began his argument for his brother-in-law and assassin he said:

I say that such men as Grant and Conkling and Arthur are morally and intellectually responsible for the crime. Mr. Conkling shall not escape, shall not shirk the responsibility of the state of things that led to this act, and he shall not escape the condemnation of the American people, if I can help it.

The country will condemn such a charge as this, and will have no more respect for him than it has for the murderer. Scoville's day has passed. He has made himself as conspicuous as the law will allow, and "pretty soon he will be through, his name will drop out of the papers, and he can come home and shake hands with his creditors, all of whom are anxious to see him."

A few days ago the Gazette published an opinion given by professor Whitford regarding school holidays, which in effect said that Mondays were not legal holidays when the Sunday previous came on the 25th of December and the 1st of January. After a careful examination of the law, he caused the following to be published in the Journal of Education.

Q. "When a legal holiday falls on Sunday, can a teacher take a holiday on a week-day?"

A. As a matter of fact, no legal holiday in this State can fall on Sunday. The statute, after naming certain days and declaring them legal holidays, immediately says that when any one of said days falls on Sunday, as for instance, the 25th of December, the following Monday shall be a legal holiday; which is equivalent to saying that the 25th of December is a legal holiday except when it falls on Sunday, and then the 26th of December becomes a legal holiday instead.

This sets the matter right, and the opinion here given has been published in many of the leading State papers so that teachers throughout the State may not be misled.

THE UNLOADED GUN.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., January 20.—About 6 o'clock this morning G. B. Hawkins, night clerk at the Sentinel office, was accidentally shot and killed by a carrier named John Green, who carelessly snapped a revolver at him, thinking it was unloaded. Green gave himself up to the authorities.

HOWE'S REFORM.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—It has been the practice of the postoffice department for many years to change the vignet upon postal warrants upon the accession to office of every new postmaster general by substituting a portrait of the new official. Postmaster General Howe has instituted a reform in this practice by ordering a fine vignet of Benjamin Franklin to be placed upon the warrants.

BEST TIME ON RECORD.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 20.—Yesterday, while the family of a farmer were in town, the hired man, named Edgar Christie, formerly of Chicago, burglarized the house. The sheriff was called on this morning, and, after looking over the indications, accused Christie, who owned up and told where the money was secreted. It was found and Christie placed under arrest. Within an hour and a half from that time Christie had been brought to town, presented to the circuit court on information, pleaded guilty, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

F. H. Drake's Sufferings.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures) externally, and was cured, and has remained perfectly well to this day.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—It is reported that there is a breaking up of the foreign mission slate, and a recast is said to have been made. New is still put down for Russia by the gossips, but Kirkwood has disappeared from the slate, and Taft is in for Berlin, while it is reported that ex-Governor Smith, of Wisconsin, or Horace Rublee will be sent to Vienna. John Baker is put down for his old place in Venezuela. Pitkin, of Louisiana, is to go to Naples, although it is said that Fred Seward could go there if he wished.

WISCONSIN JUDICIAL.

GALENA, Ill., Jan. 20.—The Wisconsin Republican Judicial Central Committee have called a convention for the Fifth judicial district, to held at Dodgeville on Thursday, Feb. 43, at 2 p. m., to nominate a candidate for Circuit Judge to succeed M. M. Cothren. It is believed that the Hon. George Clementson, of Lancaster, Grant County, is the strongest candidate, and that he will be nominated. Mr. Clementson is one of the most brilliant and popular members of the Wisconsin bar. He was the law partner of theilate Hon. J. Allen Barber.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

LANCASTER, Ky., January 20.—This community had scarcely recovered from the excitement incidental to the Wilmot murder before it was convulsed by a murder little less bloody and far more brutal. There lived about two miles from town Joseph Bland and a maiden sister Betsey, aged about 85 years, and a nephew, a wild scapegrace, by the name of William Austin. This afternoon about 5 o'clock as Bridget Henning and Ambrose Bourne were returning from town they were accosted on the road about half a mile below Bland's house by Austin in a half intoxicated condition, who told them Miss Betsey had been murdered. They at first laughed at what they considered a drunken story, but were finally induced to go to the house where their horrified eyes beheld her stiff in death. Riding rapidly back to town they informed her brother and Marshal Singleton, who accompanied by several citizens hastened out to Bland's house, where they found no one but Austin, who was standing in the door. In a few minutes the marshal discovered blood on the pants, boots and face of Austin, and immediately accused him of the murder, and arrested him. An investigation of the corpse revealed that she had been cut in several places about the head and face and neck with an axe, which was left in the house, and which Joe Bland identified as his property. Robbery was the motive to the awful deed. The Coroner has just returned, and says the evidence against Austin is conclusive.

THE JEANNETTE.

WASHINGTON, Jan,, 20.—The Secretary of the Navy has just received the following telegram from Engineer Melville, of the lost Artic exploring steamer Jeannette:

IRKOUTSK, Jan., 18 1882.—Secretary Navy, Washington D. C., U. S. A.—Melville Danenhower and eleven men all well. Melville returned to the artic ocean, found log-books, instruments, and four records left by DeLong. No tidings of second cutter, Lieut. Chipp. Search continued during the winter by the Cossock Commandment of Belun and Iakoutsk, under the direction of Gen. Tschernieff.

A Canadian-English Romance.

Four Montreal ladies entered into a correspondence recently with a clergyman in London, Eng. This family were daughters of a gentleman who once was a Major in the English army, and during the regime of the Canadas was at one time an A. D. C. to the Governor-General. The gentleman with whom the ladies corresponded had retired from the pulpit with a handsome allowance, and had an income of about $15,000 a year. Besides, he was intellectually infirm and might die at any moment. Correspondence ensued, and resulted in the clergyman asking for the portrait of each, previous to making a proposal. One of the ladies, a widow, called in the services of an artist and had a charming picture made, all wrinkles being obliterated. The widow was chosen and the proposal accepted. The clergyman became ill, and she started for England. But neither the lover nor his sisters would believe that the lady was the one whose photograph was sent. She was refused admittance, and a few days afterwards he died. The relatives offered a handsome douceur, but that would not heal the wound, and the widow now sues for a fortune upon the ground that documents now in her possession are equal to a marriage contract.

—Wilmington probably has the largest sturgeon fishing firm in the country. It employs some thirty or forty nets, all told, on the Delaware, ten of which are fished by the month. A schooner is kept busy in the ice trade, and a steamer accompanies the boats. While the men are fishing the steamer moves from boat to boat, taking on the sturgeon as fast as caught, dressing them on the boat and taking the caviare from them. Speaking of caviare, it should be stated that it is the spawn of the fish, and is a favorite sauce, particularly with the Germans. It consists simply of the eggs, properly cured, and epicures regard it very highly. Many hundred kegs are shipped to Germany each year. The firm, after much trouble, is able to put up the caviare very nicely, with a patent preparation.

About Pie.

The dependence of the American citizen upon his pie is quite touching. The amount consumed, if properly arranged with reference to statistical dyspepsia, would probably exceed the horror-inspiring figures which reformers love to cite in regard to the effect of tobacco and liquors. From 25,000 to 30,000 pies are daily sold in the City of New York alone. Multiplied by fifty, the ratio of the population of New York City to that of the United States, it would appear that over a million and a half of pies are eaten every day by the people of the United States. This does not include the pies made by private families and large hotels in New York; so that it is safe to say that at least a third of a pie or a pie every three days is eaten by every family in the land. One curious feature is that during times of public excitement people do not eat as much as usual. One of the pie manufacturers says that, during the recent illness of President Garfield, especially at the time of his assassination and the day of his death, including, also, the days of great suspense, the business of pie-eating and pie-buying fell off very seriously. The same is true of election times. Pumpkin pie is going out of fashion, being superseded by apple and custard.—Exchange.

—Over 2,000 robins were killed by one man in a Kentucky roost recently. Every branch of a cedar thicket sixty acres in extent has its red-breasted lodger, and, although the slaughter by hunters, who use a lantern and club, is terrific, their numbers do not seem to decrease.

The Champion Hotel Beat.

How He Fooled the Landlords and Left Town Nineteen Dollars Ahead.

"Talk about your hotel beats," said a clerk in a Cleveland hotel; "I know of one of the toughest cases which happened a short time ago. I got the first part of the story from the proprietor of a prominent restaurant, to whom the fellow told a history of the affair before he skipped out of the town. He said that one evening this fellow came in and sat down to a table, giving his orders with the air of a millionaire. He was nicely dressed and wore a long handsome Ulster. After he finshed his supper he started out, seeming to forget that he hadn't paid. The proprietor stopped him with the remainder of the fact, when it was found that the fellow was a beat and had not a cent of money. The restaurant was angry, when the fellow begged off, and said he would leave his pantaloons with the proprietor as security till morning.

The gentleman, in order to test him, consented and the fellow went behind a screen and divested himself of the aforementioned, leaving on the light covering of his under clothing. With his Ulster buttoned close around him, he still had the appearance of a finely-dressed gentleman, with his pantaloons stuffed in his top boots. He left the breeches and went out. Entering a certain prominent hotel he walked to the register, entered his name, comanded to be shown to his room and instructed the clerk to have him called at eight o'clock in the morning, all of which was complied with; but when the boy called him at eight o'clock the air was blue with profanity, and the fellow ordered the boy to send the landlord immediately. The landlord, thinking something had happened, immediately repaired to the room and found his guest apparently in a terrible rage.

He wanted to know what kind of a house he kept there, full of petty thieves. "Just look here," said he, "my pantaloons containing my watch and pocket-book, are gone, and some one connected with this house took them, for they must have crawled in over the transom. I tell you I'll give this place away to every man on the road." The landlord was considerably chagrined about the matter, and sent out for a pair of pantaloons, and as the rest of the clothes were very elegant an elegant pair was purchased. The fellow was then taken to breakfast and shown the best attention the house could afford. After breakfast the landlord gave him $20 as he had to leave immediately, and promised to leave a stone untrained until the thief was discovered. The cute young gentleman went to the restaurant, redeemed his pants, told the story, and skipped the town about $19,50 ahead."

A Secret and a Fortune Both Well Kept.

The inborn proclivity of the female sex to gossip and make trouble by knowing too much of other people's affairs and too little of their own has given rise to the moss-grown slur that a woman cannot keep a secret. The woman who can keep a secret through a period of a score of years, without so much as allowing her husband to know of it, deserves eminently a tablet in the shrine of memory, and a few "sticks" in the columns of a newspaper. A remarkable and somewhat romantic case in point has lately come to light. "Many years ago," so the tale begins, there lived a family of the name of Blanco, in Santa Barbara. The family was among the most influential and richest of the old Spanish stock, and is known all over the State. Shortly after the birth of the only daughter Mrs. Blanco was taken seriously ill and died. Upon her deathbed she was attended by a faithful friend and companion from early childhood, Mrs. Del Valle, the aged mother of Assemblyman Del Valle. To her keeping the dying woman intrusted the disposition of jewelry and diamonds, which are stated to be of the value of $20,000. The confidante, and a true one she proved herself to be, as the sequel will show, was abjured to maintain the strictest secrecy concerning the possession and future disposition of the treasure. Since the receipt of the charge Mrs. Del Valle has undergone, as can be said of nearly every old Californian, serious reverses of fortune. She is said to have had a bitter struggle of life. But never, even in her darkest days, did she turn to the treasure in her own hands to ameliorate her condition and that of her family. Her husband was ignorant, until recently, of the wealth in her possession. Miss Blanco grew up to maidenhood also ignorant of the lucky windfall in store for her. She became of marriageable age, and a short time ago entered into the bonds of matrimony with a young American of Santa Barbara. Upon the morning of the wedding day, which proved such a grand surprise to her and her young husband, good old Mrs. Del Valle presented the young bride with the treasure already mentioned, besides the trousseau that her deceased mother had worn on her own wedding day. Thus Mrs. Del Valle fulfilled to the very letter the last wish of a dying companion, and also showed to the wide world that there is at least one woman who can keep a secret worth knowing under the most perplexing and adverse circumstances.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Bad Medicine Man.

The following is related by an army officer who witnessed the occurrence:

A clerk in the Agency store at Fort Reno, in the Indian Territory, a short time before the last total eclipse of the sun, informed the Indians that on a certain day (naming that on which the eclipse would take place) he would proceed to put out the sun, and if they would assemble at that time, they could witness the performance. The Indians professed not to believe what he said, but he assured them he would certainly do all he promised, and when the day arrived, it brought a large number of the noble red men to witness the sun's extinction. A few minutes before the time fixed by the astronomers for the observation to begin, the wag mounted himself on an empty sugar hogshead and began his incantation. Presently the sun began to disappear, and the "sons of the forest" evinced unmistakable signs of uneasiness, which increased as the performance progressed, until, a short time before the sun disappeared entirely, they rushed upon the magician, exclaiming: "Bad medicine man! put out sun!" and would have dispatched him in short order had they not been restrained by the soldiers who had gathered to see the fun.—Harper's Drawer.

A Fight with a Wild-Cat.

A frightful encounter with a wild-cat was had last night about midnight at the Pro Bono Publico saloon, on Mill street, by Charles Baxter. The ferocious beast was met in the cellar by Mr. Baxter, who had descended to this department for the purpose of getting some black-berry brandy. He had a light in his hand, but a gust of wind extinguished it, and almost simultaneously Charlie heard a hissing noise and then felt the animal's claws lacerating the flesh of his face and neck. The attack was so sudden and unexpected that Charlie was for a time overcome. He soon recovered, however, and a terrible conflict ensued in the dark. The young man was not long in realizing his desperate situation. He clutched his assailant with both hands in a death-like grip, and commenced ascending the steps. When near the top the animal wrenched itself from his hold and ran rapidly up the steps into a small apartment in the rear portion of the saloon, known as the lamp-room. Charlie called to his assistance Taylor Megrue, and in a few seconds the animal lay dead on the floor with a bullet buried in its brain. It proved to be a remarkably large one, and a desperate-looking beast even in death. How it came to be in the cellar is a mystery which no one seems anxious or competent to explain.—Silver Cliff (Colo.) Republican.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876, I was taken with a VIOLENT BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when, to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will be induced take DR WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared, and I shall soon be able to go to work." Sold by druggists. 1

—There is an elk's head and horns in the museum of the University of Tennessee that weighs over 700 pounds.

—The law of Georgia makes it a crime to point a pistol or a gun at another, either in fun or malice, whether the gun or pistol be loaded or not.

—Benjamin Franklin, who died in 1790, was grandson of a man born in the sixteenth century, in the reign of Elizabeth. Three generations thus extending over two centuries.

—There are more than twenty thousand people in America descendants of one Richard Lyman, who landed in Boston two hundred and fifty years ago, from High Olgar, near London.

—The emblem of the Order of the Garter is a dark-blue ribbon edged with gold, with the motto Honi soit qui mal y pense worked in gold letters, and a buckle and pendent of gold. It is worn on the left leg below the knee.

—In order to stop a panic in his church, a clergyman in Bradford, Pa., led off in a hymn at the top of his voice. His singing was so unmusical that the congregation believed that he had become terrified beyond control, and the panic increased in violence.

—The position of umpire is not always either safe or pleasant. A man in New York, to whom was referred a dispute whether a young woman's hair was red or auburn, decided that it was red. For this sanguine opinion the disputant who took an auburn view of the case stabbed the unhappy referee.

—All the Russian prisoners are not patriots suffering for the human race. Lieutenant Landsberg, who murdered Madame Vlasoff and her servant for money to pay his debts of honor, employs his life sentence of penal servitude in overseeing the construction of fortifications by a gang of rebellious Mussulmans from the Caucasus.

—The question whether eggs should be sold by number or by weight has been under discussion in Paris. All of the usual arguments in favor of either method have been put forth. Men of mathematical and statistical proclivities have been at work on the problem, and have learned that eggs laid by the more generous fowls, such as Black Spanish, Houdans and Creve-Cœurs, average seven to a pound, while Hamburgs and some other varieties lay eggs so small that nine or ten are required to tip the pound weight. It has not occurred to any ingenious Frenchman, that, in view of the varying thickness of the shells, a more equitable method than either of those under discussion would be to open the eggs, and sell them at so much a quart for solid meats, as oysters are sold.

—The Lynchburg Virginian describes an ingenious trap devised by a Virginia farmer to capture sheep-stealing dogs. Having suffered severely from the depredation of dogs upon his sheep fold, he built around a number of sheep that dogs had killed an inclosure of rails twelve feet high and ten feet square at the ground, the sides of the trap sloping inward until an opening was left about five feet square. Any dog could easily climb such a sloping fence and enter the pen, but not even a greyhound could jump out of it. In three nights the farmer captured forty-six dogs, including fifteen or twenty that had never been seen before in that neighborhood. This after their had been a public slaughter of all dogs suspected of sheep killing save one, whose master could not be convinced of his guilt. The trap was built for his especial benefit, and it caught him the first night.

—A little girl only fourteen years of age, named Margaret Messenger, has just been convicted and sentenced to death at the Cumberland Assizes in England for the murder of a baby whose nurse she was. The jury found her guilty, and also that—although, being at the time under the age of fourteen, she was, prima facie, incapable of crime—she was precocious enough to have a criminal intent. There is on record in England an example of a boy aged eight years being hanged for burning a barn in Berkshire. A boy of ten, convicted of murdering his bedfellow, was unanimously pronounced by the Judges as a proper subject of capital punishment, and does not appear to have been reprieved. These cases happened long before the Secretary of State was in the habit of interfering in cases of murder as he does at present; and it is probable that this young girl may have her punishment commuted to imprisonment for life.

—A report comes from physicians in Baltimore that a case of genuine leprosy has been brought to attention there. The patient is a lady, the mother of several children, and her case has excited considerable attention among the physicians of that city. She was born in Baltimore, where she lived until her sixteenth year, when she removed to the eastern shore. The only reason assigned for the affliction of this lady is that she resided near another leper, and it is supposed by this means contracted the malady. It is generally believed that leprosy is contagious, a belief which in this instance seems attested, as the woman has never in her life crossed the borders of the State of Maryland, thus making it impossible for her to contract the disease by breathing air which was previously contaminated by the presence of lepers. The patient has now about the face a leonine appearance, or a resemblance to the lion, caused by globules growing over it.

—Zadkiel's Almanac for 1882 predicts all sorts of pleasant and unpleasant things for this country. Its editor, Zadkiel Tao Sze, observes in the preface that the spread of an intelligent faith in planetary influence will soon make everybody acknowledge astrology and compel the press to cease their abuse of its votaries. The predictions are that in the latter part of February next great excitement will prevail in New York, and a great conflagration will take place in this city. An epidemic of diphtheria and smallpox threatens Washington for March. "About the middle of April Mars will transit the ascendant of the vernal ingress at Washington, producing great excitement in the States; the President's position will be an unenviable one." The general outlook for this country for some six months to come is by no means unfavorable. A financial panic and the burning of a theatre are predicted for New York; great excitement, much violence and shocks of earthquake are anticipated for the country at large. Some great American will suffer degradation. But about August next everything will be put in good shape again by the beneficent influence of Jupiter in Gemini. Excellent crops and important measures of reform in the direction of civil service, trade and commerce may be expected for next autumn.—New York World.

Keeping Bulbs and Tubers.

Differences in climate necessitate different methods of treatment of the same species of bulbs or tubers, in order to preserve them from one season to another under artificial conditions. For instance, the common potato in cool climates is one of the easiest of all tubers to preserve in a sound condition from one season to another; but in hot climates it decays rapidly after reaching maturity in the fall. The chief condition necessary for its preservation is a cool and dry place, and when this can be secured the tubers will remain sound, not for six months or a year, but for a number years, for in the native habitat of the potato droughts frequently occur, lasting two, three, or more years, and the wild plants remain in an entirely dormant condition until the rains come and force the tubers into growth. We have in our possession some tubers of the wild potato which we gathered two years ago in one of the canons of the Rocky Mountains in New Mexico, and they are as sound as when first taken from their native soil. They have been preserved in dry sand in a tin box, deposited in a cool cellar, conditions which are unfavorable to the growth of the potato.

The potato, as is now well known to botanists who have traveled in the regions above named, is a native of the Rocky Mountain range, commencing in Colorado, and extending southward through Mexico and along the Andes in South America; but we believe it is found in all cases at high elevations, where the climate is naturally cool, and often very dry. In some parts of this region no rains will fall for several years, and when this occurs the tubers of the wild potato remain dormant until conditions favorable to growth return. This fact gives us a key to the most favorable conditions in which to preserve the domesticated or improved sorts, namely, in a dark place, excluded from air, and at a low temperature. By a low we do not mean a freezing temperature, because it is doubtful if the wild tubers become frozen even where the temperature of the air falls ten to thirty degrees below zero, because the soil is so dry during winter that the cold does not penetrate to any considerable depth.

The sweet potato, being a tropical plant and a native of lower and moister climates than the Virginia, or, more properly, American potato, requires entirely different conditions for its preservation. It must be kept dry and warm, as cold, even above the freezing point is often destructive to its vitality. In warm climates it is only necessary to bury the tubers in dry soil in the autumn in order to have them come out sound in spring; but in cool climates, as in our Northern States, a little artificial heat during the winter months is required. Packing in dry chaff or kiln-dried sand is perhaps the best method, after which place the barrels or boxes in a dry room or cellar where a fire can be occasionally kindled to drive out moisture and raise the temperature to sixty or seventy degrees. The tubers will not sprout even at a higher temperature unless considerable moisture is present in the materials used for packing.

Turnips, beets, carrots and all similar bulbs and tubers, natives of cool climates, should be kept cool and not so dry as to cause them to lose their natural moisture by evaporation. If placed in large heaps heat is generated and decay rapidly follows, a condition which should be carefully avoided. Ventilation of cellars or pits in which such roots are stored is usually necessary, but this will not prevent the heating of the roots in the center of large heaps or bins, because the cool air will not reach them even when those on the outside are frozen. The better way is to divide up the crop into smaller lots; then it is easy to control the surrounding atmosphere. More roots are lost every winter through keeping them too warm than too cold, and heating, sprouting and decay usually follow careless storage of root crops in general.

With ornamental bulbs and tubers the same rules should be observed as in the preservation of those that are useful. Those coming from cool climates should be kept cool, and those from warm climates warm. Tuberoses can scarcely be kept too warm and dry during the winter, and a warm room is a better place to store them than a dry, cool cellar. Gladiolus bulbs should also be kept dry and warm, for if the air is moist as well as warm, they will certainly sprout before the time arrives for planting out in spring. Dahlia tubers are more delicate than sweet potatoes, but will keep sound in a moderately cool and dry atmosphere. The safest way to keep them, where a person does not possess a greenhouse, is to pack in kiln-dried sand and tight barrels, and then set them away in a dry, warm room where they will not freeze, or in a warm cellar, and as high on the shelf as convenient. The tubers should be examined occasionally during the winter; if too dry add moisture, and if too moist take out and dry them and return them to the barrel. There is, however, greater danger from moisture than dryness, because few persons, except professional gardeners, take up and dry their tubers and bulbs properly before packing them away for winter. The lifting is usually done in a great hurry and at the last possible moment before the ground freezes up, and then the roots go in covered with wet earth or mud, there being no time or conveniences for drying and properly preparing them for their winter quarters.—N. Y. Sun.

Concerning the Care of Children.

I was a visitor at a house a short time ago where one of the members of the family, a little girl of four or five years, was the object of much solicitude by her parents. She was a bright and pretty child, but had suffered from attacks of "fits" or "spasms." The immediate guardians of the child seemed to be intelligent, sensible people, and I was amazed, while at dinner, to see the little girl served the same as an adult, with rich and hearty food, including even chow-chow, apple pie and coffee! It was no wonder the poor little creature had "fits," or whatever the nervous malady may have been that was so designated. The ignorance displayed in the diet of the child was too utterly abominable to be excused, and I was scarcely able to hold my tongue from crying out against it. But I eased my conscience in answering the question how I managed to give my little boy his look of superb health by emphasizing the fact that he had never so much as tasted coffee, or apple pie, or chow-chow, or various other things commonly allowed to children.

The other day an acquaintance complained to me of the dainty appetite of her children, of their leanness, their propensity to be "forever on the stretch," their total disinclination to take sufficient sleep and rest. The children were often guests at my house, and I knew that the most delicate one of them all had never been trained to drink pure milk The stuff she daily drank was a mixture of warm water, milk and sugar. All the children ate candy, cakes, fine crackers, and were put to bed much later at night than they should have been. To my mind there was nothing surprising in the fact that a good appetite was a stranger to her little ones, or that they were lean and unduly active.

Another mother declares that her children always have "colds" from October until June. She dresses them daintily, in apparel both fine and costly, in sealskin coats, muffs, tippets and things of such ilk. Their frocks are worn very short, their drawers are of finest cambric, and their only "under flannel" consists of a fine and dainty knitted shirt, so that while the upper portion of the body is well protected and over protected in a sealskin garment, the lower part is very shabbily clothed so far as warmth goes. The cold scurries up the poorly clad legs, which the short petticoats—handsomely embroidered—fail to protect. With the clothing of the body so unevenly distributed, is it any wonder that the children always have colds? A good woolen undergarment, cut to fit the body, arms, legs and all, and worn next to the skin, would do more for the welfare of her children than all the sealskin coats, feathered hats and ornamented toggery in the universe. There is something atrocious in sacrificing a child's health to finery, or in being so ignorant and careless as not to know that it is being so sacrificed.

Every nine men out of ten that have achieved distinction in this country were in childhood inured to plain food and clad in cheap, often mean, apparel. Nobody looks for great men or great women from the homes of wealth where luxury abounds. A certain amount of hardship seems indispensable to the development of character.

What is it to us, who are grown to womanhood or manhood, that we wore broadcloth, or "linsey," or silk, embroidered or patched garments in our childhood, calico or India mull, whether we had ribbons, or laces, or sashes, or ruffles, or finery of any sort? It is of not the smallest real consequence. What is of real consequence, however, is that we had plain, nutritious food, so that our bones and our teeth were properly supplied with building material, that we were healthfully clad, that we were taught to breathe well, to chew our food well, to sit and walk erect, to be truthful, honest, clean, industrious, earnest, to read only good books, to take excellent care of our teeth, and—to speak good English.

If parents could only discern between important and unimportant things, and hold to the former and discard the latter, how immeasurably the welfare of the race would be advanced. But they waste and worry themselves over trifles, especially the mothers, who will sit up o' nights and prick their fingers sore over some foolish bit of finery—and perhaps weep and sigh and be very unhappy because their little boys or girls can't have hats and frocks like certain other children. Oh me, how foolish! Or have money for a "start in life." How much money had Garfield or Lincoln, or Edison, or Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, or Stephenson, or Fulton, or Christopher Columbus, or A. T. Stewart, or Vanderbilt, or Harriet Beecher Stowe, or John Bunyan, or General Grant, St. Paul, or Michael Angelo with which to make a "start in life?" The best wealth to make a "start in life" on, for man or woman, is a good, strong body, good principles, good character and industrious habits. Perseverance is genius, energy is talent, and industry and economy united with tend-to-your-own-business, mean competence. —Mary Wager-Fisher, in Rural New Yorker.

Stock in Winter.

As the season has now arrived for confining stock, and they are prevented from taking the amount of exercise they obtain in the milder portions of the year when they are at pasture, in order to maintain their good health greater attention is necessary to the requirements of the animals. One of the most important of these is a frequent supply of salt. Mankind as a rule does not partake of a single meal without having it liberally seasoned with this important natural product. The craving of animals is of a similar nature. The hunter knows that the wary deeer can be surely allured to destruction by the magnetic-like influence of the salt-lick, and there quietly awaits the arrival of his victims. Domestic animals have the same longing for salt, which can only be satisfied by frequent and liberal allowances. We are told by African travelers that children in that distant land are often seen sucking lumps of rock-salt and enjoy them as much as children here do the "mintstick." The horse, particularly, relishes this nutritious seasoning; and to the hog it can be given in its food in increased quantities with beneficial results. The sheep being a smaller feeder requires a less quantity than swine. Salt in its pure state is fatal to poultry, but when mixed to a small extent, with their food, has an excellent effect.—Germantown Telegraph.

The well-known correspondent, Edward King, writing from Paris tells of the recent visit to that gay capital of the ex-Empress Eugenie. It is a sorrowful picture, and the contrasts it suggests have a touching pathos. He says: "The white-haired old lady, wrinkled and worn, whom the passers in the Rue Vivienne stared at the other day, was the ex-Empress Eugenie. Most Parisians who saw her thought there was something familiar in her appearance, but could not remember who she was. She visited a shop in which a great number of valuable objects of art which once graced the imperial palaces were stored; she went through the garden of the Tuileries, and out to Fontainebleau, where she delighted to live with her son. Those who conversed with her say that she is completely broken in spirit, and that her life seems a burden to her."

—A number of years ago a boy was taken from an orphan asylum in New York and placed in a family in New Jersey, who ill-treated him. He ran away, but promised to return when he was large enough to whip his persecutor. This he did a few days ago, and after doing his work very effectively took a western train, and so escaped. A young fellow who is thus "as good as his word" should be either respected or feared.

—R. C. Kedzie has lately communicated to the public the result of a number of careful experiments in regard to the comparative value of partly ripe, just ripe and dead ripe wheat, based on two varieties of hard wheat. Both kinds showed the dead ripe wheat to be least nutritious, the food properties having been supplanted in ripening by carbo-hydrates.

AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. Use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organization wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3 (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

A POPULAR TONIC

For Weak Lungs and Consumption.

No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the like endorsements of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tolu, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be adduced to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tolu, Rock and Rye.—Chicago Times. dec21deod6m

BRIEFLETS.

—Attend church.

—The weather is getting as fickle as the human mind.

—The thermometer stood 33 degrees above zero one year ago to-day.

—The affair at the Opera house next Monday night will be "A Celebrated Case."

—The streets were crowded with teams to-day, and several of them presented an appearance similar to Broadway.

—Mr. W. H. Remmington, a representative of the Omaha Herald, is in the city, and is a guest of the Grand hotel.

—Rev. P. Rech, of Fort Atkinson, will preach in German at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Sunday evening at 7:30 o clock.

—J. M. Alden, of the Second Ward, is confined to the house from the effects of a fall, which he received a day or two ago.

—Miss Anderson, the pastry cook at the county jail, is dangerously ill, and there is not much hope of her recovery.

—W. Fox has hung out a sign of a "livery, sale and feed stable," on the old barn at the corner of Court and River streets.

—Mr. William A. Lawrence has disposed of $2,000 worth of cotton factory stock for $1.20. This shows that the factory is financially solid.

—The ice packing machine of Hogoboom & Atwood is working very handsomely to-day, and draws crowds to the ice pond to witness the operation.

—There will be a lodge of Knights of Pythias instituted at Racine next Tuesday, and several members of the Memorial Lodge of Janesville, will attend.

—It was once reported and then denied, that Mr. Walter Myers was married to Miss Minnie Casar. The latest report, and it comes from a very reliable source, is that they are married.

—Several members of the Grand Army Post, of this city, including Mr. Cobb, Mr. Croft, Captain Smith and Colonel Britton, will attend the Grand Encampment in Milwaukee next week.

—Messrs H. D. McKinney and H. S. Woodruff, of this city, and Mr. McLean, of Beloit, made some amusement for a crowd of spectators on the lower end of Main street this afternoon, speeding their fast horses.

—R. W. Sarquhar, of Aberdeen, Scotland, arrived in the city to-day, to attend the Valentine School of Telegraphy. When a school of that kind widens its reputation across the seas, there is some merit to it.

—The chapel of the Congregational church is completed with the exception of putting in the stained glass. It will be ready for occupancy by February, about the time the new pastor—Mr. Davis—takes the pastorate of the church.

—Messers. Kent & Lawrence shipped to-day, one hundred dozzen of Kent's corn planters, to a firm in Cincinnati, and on Monday they will ship another large consignment to Rochester, New York. Farmers will have the Kent corn planter, any way.

—The Guards had a very pleasant, and financially, a successful party last evening at their armory. The members of the company are now making preparations for a grand annual masquerade ball to be given the week following the closing of Lent.

—Rev. Father Cleary, of Kenosha, will deliver a temperance lecture at St. Patrick's church on Tuesday evening, January 31st. Father Cleary has a reputation of being in the foremost rank of temperance orators, and will, no doubt, draw a full house.

—Mr. Sylvester Murray, of Turtle, who was very deaf, was walking on the track of the Western Union railway this morning, when a passenger train struck him, almost instantly killing him. He was father of Charles and Clarence Murray, and Mrs. George Wooster, of Brodhead.

—John Brown is performing the duties of turnkey at the county jail, during the indisposition of H. A. Skavlem, who is at home on a sick furlough. John seems right at home, and handles the keys with as gentlemanly a grace as the ablest experts—he fills the bill in any position placed.

—Mr. Henry A. Doty informs us that yesterday he took in forty-one loads of grain at his feed mill on North Main street, and that one day last week he received sixty-one loads. He says that in the ordinary grain market season the receipts in the city are considered light if they fall below three hundred and fifty or four hundred loads in one day.

—Last night about 12 o'clock three unknown men attempted to enter the rooms occupied by Mr. Longstrath, over Mr. Ferguson's second hand furniture store, on North Main street. They tried to open the door with keys which woke Mr. Longstrath, when he demanded who was there. They answered that they wanted to get in, and when questioned they said they wanted his money and then they would leave. They were bent on making an entrance, when Mr. Longstrath raised a window and called for help which frightened the thieves away.

—There was an attempt at highway robbery, murder, or something of the kind, on Milton avenue on Thursday night, in the neighborhood of Alfred Dewey's residence. Several parties report that between eight and nine o'clock they saw and heard several pistol shots fired, five of which were fired apparently from a farmer's wagon which was passing out, and two from some person or persons in the road. The racket and the firing of the shots rather intimidated the residents, as none of them ventured near enough to identify the parties or discover the true cause of the skirmish. After the exchange of the shots the farmer broke away with his team and drove rapidly up the avenue. The true cause of the disturbance, as well as the parties concerned, remains in the dark.

Mr. Bennett and the Judgship.

There is a strong effort being made by the members of the legal profession, irrespective of party, to induce Mr. John R. Bennett, of this city, to become a candidate for Judge of this circuit, to take the place of Judge Conger, whose term will expire on the 31st of December, the present year. As an evidence of the esteem in which Mr. Bennett is held in the circuit, and the confidence his legal friends have in him, it is worthy of note that almost the entire bar of the circuit have signed a call for him to become a candidate at the election which takes place in April; and the few who have not signed the call, expressed the highest regard for Mr. Bennett's ability, integrity, and worth.

This endorsement is exceedingly complimentary to Mr. Bennett, and beside that he deserves this unqualified expressions of confidence and esteem. He has been a prominent member of the Janesville bar for more than thirty years, and has a reputation among the legal brethren as wide as the State. There is no fitter man in the Twelfth circuit for Judge than he. He will dignify the office, and will bring to it that experience in the law, that manly integrity, that judicial bearing, and that uprightness, that will, in every sense of the word be an honor to the bench, and make him what the world admires—an upright Judge. There will be, we are happy to say, no opposition to his candidacy. He will be an independent candidate supported as he should be, by both political parties. This will be a well-paid honor to him and an honor to the Circuit.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock a. m. stood 34 degrees above zero, and at 1 o'clock p. m. 36 degrees above. Cloudy. For the corresponding time last year the thermometer stood 26 and 33 degrees above.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21, 1 a. m.—The following are the indications for to-day:

Honorable Mention

Of all the remedies on earth that well may claim attention, DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL commands especial mention. For wondrous power to cure disease, its fame there's none can throttle. Its merits are not in the puff, but are inside the bottle. Rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, diphtheria, etc., are all cured by Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Sold by A. J. Roberts and F. Sherer & Co.

Janesville, Beloit, and Rockford.

The recently opened railway line from Janesville to Rockford, promises to become an important one to the public, and a paying one to the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul. The Beloit Free Press, in noting the late change of time and the running of a night train from Janesville to Rockford, says: "The recent changes in the running of trains over this branch render travel between Beloit, Janesville and Rockford much more convenient than before, and also give us again a direct day train to and from Milwaukee, by way of Janesville. Passengers can leave Rockford at 7:35 a. m., Beloit at 8:35 a. m., and Janesville at 9:15 a. m., and arrive in Milwaukee at 12:15 noon. Returning, leave Milwaukee at 4:10, p. m., reach Janesville at 7:15 p. m., Beloit, at 7:55, p. m., and Rockford at 8:45 p. m."

Then in the way of complimentary remarks the Free Press says: "The C. M. & St. Paul road is quite disposed to accommodate the traveling public and this recently opened route is likely to prove of much benefit to this part of the State. Among other ways in which it can do us good are two accommodations which we trust will not be long delayed. One is the bringing us cheap coal from the Braidwood district soon to be reached by a further extension of the line, and the other giving us a morning train to and an evening train from Chicago, by way of Rockford."

If you are bilious, take Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the original "Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

The Hasenwinkles.

One of the best troupes on the road is the Hasenwinkle Ideals, and their admirable acting of "A Celebrated Case," "Hunchback," and "Led Astray" has drawn large audiences. The Leadville Herald of recent date, gives the company the following notice:

The Tabor Opera house was opened again last night with the presentation of "A Celebrated case," by the Hasenwinkle Ideals. The house was thronged at an early hour by a most fashionable as well as enthusiastic audience, and the familiarity with the play and its phenomenal merits was the absyrbing attraction. "A Celebrated Case" possesses a continuity of narrative that would be interesting, even if it were divested of its acting, and there is always the most profuse encomiums for its author. The cast which is presented by the Ideals is something to which no one could take exceptions, and the selection is done complete and elaborate justice. The cast is strong and complete, and Mr. Hasenwinkle and Miss Tillie Stephany find the most reliable reliable support.

An executive committee was appointed consisting of A. J. Ray, W. C. Holmes, W. G. Wheelock, and F. S. Eldred. The sum of $25.00 was appropriated to the parent society, the same to be added to the collections taken in the several churches last Sunday, and to be used in foreign missions.

Premature Loss of Hair

May be entirely prevented by the use of BURNETT'S COCOAINE. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. It softens the hair when harsh and dry. It soothes the irritated scalp. It affords the richest lustre. It prevents the hair from falling off. It promotes its healthy, vigorous growth. It is not greasy nor sticky. It leaves no disagreeable odor. It kills dandruff. Burnett's Flavoring Extracts are known as the best.

At the Court House.

We went through the Rock county court house this morning in search of items for the readers of the Daily Gazette, and found all the county officials at their several posts busy in the duties of their respective offices.

COUNTY CLERK.

In the county clerk's office we found Chairman Metcalf and Clerk Morgan busying themselves drawing, countersigning and comparing the orders drawn upon the county treasurer in payment of the bills allowed at the late meeting of the Board of Supervisors, which task will be finished up to-day. The number of orders issued in duplicate is 234, and range in amount from 56 cents to $700.

COUNTY TREASURER.

County Treasurer Miles was very cheerful in paying out the county cash upon presentation of the proper vouchers, wich will keep him on his feet for a day or two.

COUNTY JUDGE.

County Judge Prichard was very happy, inasmuch as we caught him during a momentary lull in the very grave duties of his position. The Judge wears the same pleasant smile as that of a quarter of a century ago, when he first entered the probate office, and gives all visitors the same friendly and welcome greeting.

THE REGISTER.

Register of Deeds Valentine and his deputy, Balch, are kept busy in the records of the office, but always take time to welcome their many callers whether on business pertaining to the register office or otherwise.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

The jury in the case of the State vs. Hiller brought in a verdict of not guilty, at seven o'clock last evning.

This afternoon the court was occupied in hearing the assault and battery case of the State vs. John P. Fonda, of Shopiere, which is being tried by a jury of six, composed of L. N. Williamson, James Church, Edward Connell, John Davies, C. H. Lee, and John Ehle. Wm. Smith appears for the State, and O. H. Fethers for the defendant; W. H. Lathers being the complaining witness. The case will undoubtedly last all the afternoon.

THE JANITOR.

The janitor occupies the room in the southeast corner of the building, from which room radiates the heat of the entire building. This room is presided over by Richard O'Donnell, who fully understands all the turns in the pipes, and through his manipulations the occupants of the vast building are constantly kept in good humor—warm and comfortable.
